Frequently Asked Questions – D.E MASTER BLENDERS 1753 Spin-Off

Q: How did the spin-off of your international coffee and tea business work?

A: After the market closed on June 28, 2012, Sara Lee Corporation (Sara Lee) shareholders of record received a share in D.E MASTER BLENDERS 1753 (DE) and a $3.00 per share dividend paid by DE US, Inc. The ratio of DE shares to Sara Lee shares was 1:1. In other words, for every one share of Sara Lee you held, you received one share of DE. DE holds Sara Lee's former international coffee and tea business. Then, prior to the start of trading on June 29, 2012, Sara Lee shares underwent a reverse split of 1:5, so for every five shares of Sara Lee you held on such date you then held one share of Sara Lee. If fractional shares resulted, you received a check for the value of those fractional shares. Finally, Sara Lee changed its name to The Hillshire Brands Company (Hillshire Brands) and all Sara Lee shareholders became shareholders of Hillshire Brands.

As an example, if you held 100 Sara Lee shares you received 100 DE shares and $300.00. Then your 100 Sara Lee shares became 20 Hillshire Brands shares.

Q: What was the record date for the distribution of DE shares?

A: The record date for the distribution was June 14, 2012, but because Sara Lee shares traded with "due bills," shareholders had to hold Sara Lee shares at the close of trading on June 28, 2012 in order to receive the DE shares.

Q: What was the distribution date for the $3.00 per share dividend?

A: The distribution date for the $3.00 per share dividend was June 28, 2012.

Q: What were the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the spin?

A: The $3.00 per share dividend received on June 28, 2012 was taxed as an ordinary dividend and was constituted as qualified dividend income – which meant shareholders were eligible for the lower 15% tax rate. In addition, as a result of the redomiciliation of DE to the Netherlands, discussed below, any gain (but not loss) attributable to DE shares held by U.S. shareholders was taxable. Tax Rules are complex and we urge you to consult your own tax advisor to discuss your particular situation.

Q: Did the sale of the fractional share result in a taxable gain or loss?

A: Shareholder's gain or loss was measured by the difference between the amount of cash received and the basis of the fractional share. Tax Rules are complex and we urge you to consult your own tax advisor to discuss your particular situation.

Q: How did the conversion of my Sara Lee shares to Hillshire Brands shares and my receipt of DE shares affect my tax basis?

A: Shareholders had to allocate their Sara Lee tax basis between the shares of Hillshire Brands and DE based on the values of the Hillshire Brands shares and the DE shares immediately post-spin.

Federal tax law does not specifically identify how to determine the fair market value of your post-distribution Sara Lee shares and the DE shares that you received for purposes of the tax basis allocation. Alternative methods to determine the fair market value include using: (i) the average of the high and low trading prices of the stock on the first day of trading of both stocks (note that DE did not begin trading on the Amsterdam stock exchange until July 9, 2012); (ii) the opening trading price on the first day of trading of both stocks; (iii) the closing trading price on the first day of trading of both stocks; or (iv) a subtraction from the closing trading price of Sara Lee on June 28, 2012 of the opening trading price of Hillshire Brands stock on June 29, 2012 (excluding the impact of the reverse stock split) to arrive at an estimate of DE’s trading price at the time of the spin (which would appropriately include the value of the $3.00 dividend).

Please note that due to the length of time between the spin and DE’s first day of trading on the Amsterdam stock exchange and the increase in DE’s stock price during this period it is possible that the use of alternative (iv) above may be given greater weight by taxing authorities. For this reason, Hillshire Brands, and its registered agent, have utilized the methodology of alternative (iv) in determining and reporting the fair market value of your DE shares at spin as well as allocating your tax basis.

Tax Rules are complex and we urge you to consult your own tax advisor to discuss your particular situation.

Q: What was the redomiciliation and why did it trigger a tax cost to U.S. shareholders?

A: The redomiciliation, in practical terms, represented the conversion of DE from having a parent company incorporated in the U.S. to a Dutch parent company. Such conversions are taxable, under U.S. tax law, to U.S. shareholders. The taxable gain was computed by comparing the fair market value of the DE shares, at the time of the redomiciliation, to your allocated tax basis in your DE shares. Any U.S. shareholder reporting a redomiciliation gain subsequently utilized the higher fair market value of the DE shares as their tax basis prospectively. Tax Rules are complex and we urge you to consult your own tax advisor to discuss your particular situation.

Q: What was the fractional share price for the DE shares?

Q: Why does the example on your website conclude that the value of a DE share, immediately after the spin, was $9.80, when the sales price for the fractional share was $11.77?

A: The $9.80 represents the value of DE on June 29, 2012. The value used (and paid) for fractional shares of $11.77 represents the higher market value of the DE shares during the first week of July 2012.

The share price of DE on the “as if/when issued trading” market increased from June 29, 2012 through the first week of July 2012.

Q: Why did my 1099-B forms report a different “Date of Sale,” when your website information indicates that the “Date of Sale” (for the redomicile transaction) occurred on June 28, 2012?

A: The correct date to use on your U.S. tax returns for the “Date of Sale” is June 28, 2012. The dates that are listed on your 1099-B forms represent the dates the transactions were processed by our agent.

Q: What are Covered/Non Covered Securities?

A: The Emergency Economic Stabilization Act of 2008 included new reporting requirements for financial institutions. Under the IRS regulations, financial institutions must report to the investor and IRS, on Form 1099-B, not only gross proceeds but also the adjusted cost basis for certain "covered" securities acquired after January 1, 2011.

Covered securities are securities purchased or acquired on or after its effective date as determined by Congress and the IRS (see below).

The effective dates of covered securities are:

- Equity securities acquired on or after January 1, 2011
- Mutual fund and dividend reinvestment plan (DRIP) shares acquired on or after January 1, 2012
- Debt securities, options, and all other financial instruments acquired on or after January 1, 2014

"Non-covered" securities are securities purchased or acquired before the above effective dates. Transactions involving assets purchased and held prior to these effective dates will continue to be reported as they have been in the past. It is the stockholder’s responsibility to report the transactions on their tax returns along with the proper cost basis on non-covered securities to the IRS.
